Christian Kazakoff, Head Brewer for Canyon Club Brewery

I have over 22 years of professional brewing experience making award-winning beers for the local San Francisco Bay Area market. For the past 10+ years I was running the brewery at Iron Springs in Fairfax, Marin Co. Over that decade I ramped production of less than 700 barrels steadily to over 1900 barrels, produced several GABF and World Beer Cup award winning styles, bottled and canned several brands for on and off premise sale, helped open a second taproom location, and produced well over 150 different beers ranging from the very light and pale lagers to the very dark and strong imperial stouts.

I was born in San Francisco and raised just south in Pacifica until joining the US Navy in 1991. When I was honorably discharged from active duty in 1995, I have been an East Bay denizen ever since. I am very happy and excited to be back working in the East Bay and able to call the new Canyon Club Brewery home. Before I was brewing, I worked for nine years cooking in both institutional and fine dining establishments. My schooling in the culinary arts ranged from on the job training to completing with honors the hospitality program at City College of San Francisco. Cooking has always been a passion of mine and that passion shows in my brewing abilities.

My approach, or brewing philosophy, is that I always want to brew a beer as if I am putting together a wonderful entrée for dinner. I only want to use the best malt and hops, maintain all the equipment and keep them in their best shape, employ no short cuts to the method, utilize meticulous sanitation protocols throughout, and never release the beer for consumption unless it is at its best.

The initial beer line up when we open is going to look approachable although with a variety of balanced and not too aggressive styles to satisfy a wide range of palates. There will be a kölsch, pale ale, and an IPA. There will also be a tart fruited wheat, strong beer, stout, and porter to round out the beer menu. Other styles to look forward to are IPA's with different hops, traditional and non-traditional lagers, pale ales with different malts, and beer styles with different yeast strains. I love to use non-traditional ingredients like seasonal fruits, spices from around the globe, fresh herbs, locally roasted coffee, chocolate, and other fermentable sugars not derived from malt. The creative possibilities are endless.

Lastly, I love being able to engage with the public about beer. I also love to talk about baseball and the merits of eliminating the designated hitter rule and replay officiating. I cannot wait to serve our beers to you.
